The Islander

DAILY COLONIST MAGAZINE

VICTORIA, B.C., SUNDAY, APRIL 5, 1959

This is an unusual view of Victoria Harbor, below Point Ellice Bridge. Once it was an anchorage for the crowding sealing fleet. For a story of those stirring days when the seal hunters took long chances for big profits see Cecil Clark's story on pages 8 and 9. Mr. Clark took this photograph for The Islander.